and, and this event was celebrated by many of his contemporaries and admirers at a luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Hotel Astor yesterday. In the company of the great Shakespearean actor Robert Mantell, Augustus Thomas, Julia Arthur and Arch C. Humphreys, past President of Rotary, a portrait of Edwin Booth, on view at the speakers' table, was adorned with the flags of England and the United States. It is life-size and was painted by J. A. Mohrle, the artist, formerly of Albany, who is presenting it to the gallery through Rotary.

Klumph and a committee of Romans will sail with the portrait on the steamer tomorrow. E. H. Sotherton, his wife, Julia Mariowe, who are in England, and Ambassador George M. B. are expected to attend the dedication ceremonies at Stratford on August 28. According to speakers, this is the first American honored by the Shakespearean hall of fame.

Although I was born a British subject," asserted Julia Arthur, "having been born in Canada, I want to say I feel that it is the Shakespearean play that is being honored by the possession of the portrait of the great actor, I suppose, that has ever been Edwin Booth."

Mr. Arthur told of the first time she saw the great tragedian. She was 14 years old. Booth was playing in the "Hecuba."

"I was spellbound," she said. "I looked at him intently, with his gorgeous robe, his quiet voice, his sharp and eager eyes. When the curtain came down my little friend said: 'Sit down. Don't make a holy show of yourself. Then I realized I was on my knees. I'll never forget that."

Introducing Robert Mantell, Mr. Thomas complained of the dearth of tragedians like Mr. Booth, blaming modern life for this condition. "This generation or so ago," Mr. Thomas said, "there was in the playhouse a veritable group of those superlative imitators of whom Edwin Booth was easily the first. Something in our civil life, something in the enlistment of big business, something in the rivalry competition has made the actor of the people definite and exact rather than contemplative. The and higher emotional expression been neglected. Few tragic actors there been."

Mantell recalled several performances of Booth, the first of which he saw in 1878, when Booth played Hamlet. The last was in 1891, when he took the role of Macbeth. Mr. Mantell complimented the Rotary Club for having the portrait brought to Shakespeare's birthplace.

Albee sent a letter regretting his inability to attend the luncheon, in which he said: "The placing of this portrait in the hall is to hang in future years among other immortal tragedians of different countries, we feel, will help to fix his name; but, even without picture being hung in this gallery, his name would be glorified through the ages for his dispassioned work, the kind thought and devotion he had for others and his gentleness, combined with the strength of a real man and a real actor."

LLOYD NOT TO VOTE IN HOUSE OF BISHOPS

Wait Until Other Suffragans Obtain Privilege, He Says— Prelates Go to Convention.

The Right Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd, suffragan Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, will start tomorrow morning for Portland, Ore., to attend the triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church. Bishop Lloyd is only suffragan Bishop in the Diocese of Bishops who can vote, but he did not intend to exercise this privilege until it was granted to his fellow-suffragans. The honor was conferred on him on his retirement three years ago as President of the House of Bishops, he is treated as having earned that income despite the fact that his last book may have made $150 and his next may only fetch $500.

"Lloyd George will, therefore, figure as one of the very few people with incomes of over $100,000, and the Government will doubtless claim a full half of the amount he is to receive from his publishers. The plum, therefore, is not quite so plummy as it looks at first sight and the Prime Minister will be in a position to understand the feelings not only of his fellow super-taxpayers, but also of his fellow authors.

"I should not be surprised if he develops a sudden sympathy with the point of view, say, of the Authors' Society, which has always maintained, though unsuccessfully, that exceptional earnings of authors should be regarded as capital and not as income. The point was well put six years ago by Bernard Shaw. He took the case of an author who after a long struggle sold a play or a book for $21,000 and had a very small chance of repeating the success. Treated as income this would have to pay tax [at the then rate] of (7,504; treated as capital the tax would be only $185."

KILLED WHEN AUTO PLUNGES OFF ROAD

W. W. Nicoll, Head of Blasting Co., Crushed Under Car After Night of Entertainment.

William W. Nicoll, President of the New York Blasting Company, of 11 Broadway, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident at Bloomfield, N. J. A roadster he was driving about 6 o'clock in the morning, after a night of entertainment, plunged off the road and turned over, pinning him underneath. Charles Stindler, 19 years old, of Rochelle Park, N. J., who was riding with him, jumped out of the car and escaped with minor injuries.

Nicoll was 38 years old, unmarried and a resident of Montclair, whence he moved from New York a year ago. On Wednesday evening he took Miss Grace Pennington of Newark, who works in a Manhattan office, to a dance. They were returning in his car about 1:30 yesterday morning when Stindler, talking with Richard Pfium in Rochelle Park, heard the girl threaten to jump out of the car and saw the car stop. Stindler says he and Pfium went up to the machine and found a policeman there. According to Stindler, the girl asked him to drive her home and Nicoll offered him $10 to take over the wheel of his car, and he did so with the policeman's approval.

After taking the girl home, Stindler says, Nicoll invited them to a saloon in Newark, where they stayed from 2:30 to 5:30. Then they started for Montclair by way of Passaic. On East Passaic Avenue near High Street, in Bloomfield, Nicoll took the wheel. A short distance further was a turn in the road, where the car shot off the road and up an embankment, falling on its side. Nicoll's skull was fractured. A passing motorist summoned help.

Costimo Miraglia, a city street cleaner, living at 277 Old Avenue, Corona, was struck by an automobile driven by William L. Davidson of 2,391 Myrtle Avenue, Ridgewood, yesterday afternoon. Davidson took Miraglia to the Wyckoff Heights Hospital. His left arm was broken and his scalp lacerated. Davidson was arrested on a charge of assault.

An automobile owned by Robert Burns of 382 East Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, and said to have been driven by his son, 14 years old, bumped into another car, driven by Walter H. Seiden of 3,401 Avenue L, Brooklyn, in Flatbush Avenue, last night. Seiden's son John, 19 months old, Carlo Noble, 4 years old, and Miss Margaret Seibert, 28, of 1,415 Eighty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, all occupants of Seiden's car, were hurt. They were attended at King's County Hospital for minor hurts and returned to their homes. The Burns boy received summonses for driving without a license and on the wrong side of the road.

WANT HUSTED ON TICKET.

Friends Boom Peakskill Representative for Lieutenant Governor.

Jean Guttermann, 16, of 116 East Seventh Street, said in the Night Court last night that Robert Freifeld, 18, of 30 East Seventh Street, had accosted her yesterday afternoon at Second Avenue and Second Street and put his arms around her neck. Then, she said, he called to several of his friends, "I'll try to fix it up for a kiss for all of you." Magistrate Francis X. McQuade sentenced Freifeld to five days in the workhouse.

Policeman Thomas Downey of the East Twenty-second Street Station chased Freifeld two blocks in Second Avenue, followed by a crowd, before he caught him. The girl's brother Michael, hearing his sister's cries, ran up and knocked Freifeld down, but the youth got up and ran. The crowd threatened Freifeld after his arrest, but Downey got him safely to the police station.

TRIBUTE TO BELLE WHITNEY

Paris Intransigent Says She Died in Untiring Service to France.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—A glowing tribute to Belle Armstrong Whitney, widely known fashion expert of Boston, New York and Paris, who died early this week at Meudon, was published today by the newspaper Intransigent. News of her death reached here this morning.

"An admirable friend of France," says the newspaper, "and a Knight of the Legion of Honor has just died at Meudon from fatigue incurred in behalf of our cause. This woman really died because of her love for France."

"Twenty-two times during the war she crossed the submarine-infested Atlantic to make appeals in our behalf in the United States. She was a mother to many of our destroyed villages."

The Intransigent suggests that the Government be officially represented at the funeral service at the American Church here next Wednesday. The newspaper is organizing deputations of school children to lay flowers on her grave.

Public Funeral for Levy Mayer. Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Funeral services for Levy Mayer, noted Chicago attorney who died two weeks ago, will be held Monday at Sinai Temple, Grand Boulevard and East Forty-sixth Street. The services will be public and will be conducted by the Rev. Rufus A. White of the People's Church. Interment will be private at Rosehill Cemetery.

Announcement of the funeral arrangements was made yesterday upon the return of Mrs. Mayer from Paris. Mrs. Mayer, who was traveling in Europe at the time of the death of her husband, was accompanied from New York by her two daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hirsch and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Low of New York.

Among the honorary pallbearers announced are Arthur Brisbane, Abraham L. Hirsanger, George Q. Palmer, Morris J. Hirsch and Joseph M. Hartfield, all of New York.

Funeral of Patrick Rellihan.

Services were held yesterday for Patrick Rellihan, a political writer, at the Church of Our Lady of Victory, Throop Avenue and McDonough Street, Brooklyn. Father Duffy celebrated the high requiem mass, assisted by Father James J. Wood, pastor of the church. The honorary pallbearers included John A. Hennessy, Edward G. Riggs, Thomas F. Smith, William O'Leary, Luther Little and John H. McCooey.

Mrs. John P. Cushing.

Mrs. John P. Cushing, the wife of Dr. John P. Cushing, headmaster of Hamden Hall School, near New Haven, died last Sunday at Chatham, Mass., after a long illness, and was buried last Tuesday at Troy, New York, her childhood home. She left no children.

Mrs. Cushing's maiden name was Alice Rhyth Bullions. Her father, the Rev. Peter Bullions, was widely known in his lifetime as a preacher and teacher, and as the author of Greek, Latin and English grammars. In 1800 she was married to Dr. Cushing, who was Professor of Economics and History in Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., from 1884 to 1900. Her brother-in-law, Dr. Harry A. Cushing, died last week.

hook which was holding her prisoner. She could not loosen the waist from the hook, but was able to unbuckle her waist and slip out of it to freedom.

Using the canoe as a support Miss Corbin swam slowly to shore, thirty feet away, and dragged herself to safety. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corbin, who are spending the Summer here.

The Rev. William J. Dunne.

The Rev. William J. Dunne, rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Long Island City for the last five years, died at the rectory yesterday in his fifty-fifth year. Father Dunne was born in Brooklyn and after completing his theological studies at Niagara University he was ordained by Bishop McDonnell on June 11, 1892. The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church on Monday morning.
